Hi all!

I'm looking for some extra cymbals for some experimental recording purposes, so they do not have to be in good condition at all. Broken cymbals are fine. Even bits of metal that can be used in a cymbal-like fashion would be welcome! I live in London, UK.

If you have any of which you would like to be rid, then please contact me here.

Have you checked on eBay at all? I realize you are not asking for the best quality, but they may be hard to find. I am a huge eBayer, and usually find good deals there. If nothing else, you may be able to find someone there who sells cymbals and can direct you to some broken ones.
