I am scanning my local paper for musical equipment, when I spot what seems like a great deal. A Premiere amp from the sixties for $250. It says it is a tube amp, 75 watts piggyback. My boyfriend is out of town, and his phone has crappy service. So, I need to know what kind of things I need to ask/look for to tell if the amp is good or needs a little fixing. The seller states it is in good condition, but we all know how that goes. Thanks for any help!
