

---

Subject: FL Studio aka Music-Making Programs
Posted by GuitarStrings on Thu, 05 Jan 2012 00:47:11 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I recently bought the full version of FL Studio 10, which I bought for the full purposes of making game remixes. I suppose that's a bit of the nerd in me, but after hearing some of the great pieces other people have made, I figured that I needed to give it a shot myself!

My only issue is that, while I have the program, I really don't know how to even start. All I've been doing for the past few hours have been experimenting with various digital instruments. Does anyone else have music programs they use for producing their own works?

---

---

Subject: Re: FL Studio aka Music-Making Programs
Posted by audioaudio90 on Wed, 11 Jan 2012 14:15:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Sometimes it takes awhile for inspiration to hit. You have the tools, so just keep experimenting and see what you come up with.

I use ProTools mostly (and sometimes Audacity) when I'm recording or mixing.

---

---

Subject: Re: FL Studio aka Music-Making Programs
Posted by Damon73 on Sun, 04 Mar 2012 21:34:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

GuitarStrings wrote on Wed, 04 January 2012 18:47 I recently bought the full version of FL Studio 10, which I bought for the full purposes of making game remixes. I suppose that's a bit of the nerd in me, but after hearing some of the great pieces other people have made, I figured that I needed to give it a shot myself!

My only issue is that, while I have the program, I really don't know how to even start. All I've been doing for the past few hours have been experimenting with various digital instruments. Does anyone else have music programs they use for producing their own works?

I think it's awesome that you're going to make game remixes, that sounds like fun to me. I guess I'm a nerd too!

I agree with Audioaudio90, just be patient with it and you'll be fine. Personally I'm an Audacity fan, but FL Studio is great too.

---