I started off with a keyboard I never used, then a Recorder for my band class. I got my first guitar in 00' and haven't looked back since.

My first instrument was a piano and I took lessons for 3 years. I can play a few chords on the guitar, but that's about it.

Mine was the piano too. I got a little further on the guitar. I forgot about the recorder but I messed around with that a little as well.

I also completely forgot about the recorder. I guess technically that would be my first instrument. I really consider the piano to be my first serious instrument though, followed by the alto sax.
