What is your favorite instrument to play and your favorite instrument to listen to? I like to play the piano and drums second, but I like to listen to the drums the most and the saxophone second.

I can't figure out which one I like best because each instrument can be played beautifully. When I want to relax then I like listening to flute and guitar. I like to listen to a sax or a piano when I want to get going and become sleepy.

As for the instrument I like to play, I wanted to learn violin.

I like playing the piano because it feels really simple to play since one key corresponds to one note, unlike guitars where you have to use a combination of strings. BUT, I love the sound of an acoustic guitar. xx

This is a difficult question! I'll go with, I like playing the piano and I like listening to the violin. Though, I wish I could play the violin and the piano sounds lovely as well.

My favorite instruments to play are the piano and the guitar. I like the piano because it's what I learned first, and it's easy to just sit down and play some old pieces I still know. I like the guitar because my favorite instruments to listen to are string instruments. I love to listen to everything from classical violin to electric guitar. I've never been able to get into listening to other groups of instruments quite as much.

I like the sound of an acoustic guitar the best. I also enjoy the stand up bass, violin, and any instrument used in music you would not expect. I was at a bar one time, and the band was covering a Nine Inch Nail's song. The band had a female violin player, and it made the cover so awesome!

I grew up playing the trumpet, and it's still my favorite instrument to play. As for listening, it's tough to pick one instrument. I suppose I'd go with the guitar, but I love the alto and tenor saxophones too.

My favorite instrument to play is the piano. As for listening, that is tougher. I suppose I'd say the guitar, the drums, and the saxophone, in that order.

My favorite instrument to play is the acoustic guitar, and it's probably also my favorite solo instrument to listen to, although I find myself subconsciously searching out the bass/percussion when I'm listening to an entire band play.

The only instrument I can play decently is flute. I played it for many years during elementary, middle & senior high school. Even played it a little in college! Way back when, I also took a class to learn piano. I can play very simple tunes on that.

If I could play an instrument, it would be the piano. Piano for listening. I used to be a guitar kind of guy but not so much anymore.
