Subject: DEA locks student in cell for five days
Posted by love2play on Wed, 02 May 2012 18:52:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Has anyone else heard about this story? The DEA officers apparently "forgot" that this man was in the holding cell, and left him in there for five days with no food or water. I imagine this gentleman is about to get a hefty settlement!

Subject: Re: DEA locks student in cell for five days
Posted by TurnItUp on Sun, 06 May 2012 17:45:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I saw a couple of stories about this. I believe the guy is now suing for 20 million dollars, and he will probably get it. I don't think the DEA is going to want to go to trial on this one!

Subject: Re: DEA locks student in cell for five days
Posted by LuvMartin on Mon, 21 May 2012 18:40:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

$20 million dollars seems like an awful lot, but the guy did nearly die. The DEA should pay all of the medical bills he incurred, but I imagine they will settle out of court for close to the full amount.

Subject: Re: DEA locks student in cell for five days
Posted by TurnItUp on Fri, 25 May 2012 23:47:59 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I imagine that this will probably settle out of court for an "undisclosed amount". The DEA is not going to want the press that a trial would generate.

Subject: Re: DEA locks student in cell for five days
Posted by LoveJB on Thu, 31 May 2012 01:14:10 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have not heard any thing more on this has anyone? I know he was going to sue the DEA for $20 million, but that is the last I heard. What a shame that they did not know he was in there. He had to drink his own urine!

Subject: Re: DEA locks student in cell for five days
Posted by TurnItUp on Sat, 16 Jun 2012 01:39:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I totally agree JB, how can you forget a prisoner in your custody not just for one day but for FIVE days! I think we probably haven't heard anything more about it because they have settled it. I don't think that is a story anyone in government would want staying in the headlines.