I have been rather appalled at all the politics talk on my newsfeed on Facebook. I know this is an election year and all, but some people really seem to have fallen off the deep end no matter who they say they support. Am I the only one who has noticed this or are everybody's feeds filled with political propoganda?

Funny you should say that...I did the exact same thing last night. I honestly can't understand what some people are thinking. I also agree with the OP that some things should be kept private.

I do, however, appreciate some people revealing themselves to be the morons I always knew they were.
