I am not sure if he had never said it before or not, but today in an ABC interview President Obama said that he supported gay marriage. I guess this was in response to Amendment One passing in North Carolina yesterday. Do you think this will have any bearing on the November elections?

It sure will - several gay celebrities have already stood up for Obama and stated that he has their vote. I think people need to listen to all the facts and not just 1 thing. I'm not an Obama supporter and I am fine with gay marriages.
