We took up the carpet in our music room and WOW what a difference it made. The room definitely looks better because the carpet was shot, and there were beautiful hardwood floors underneath. I am not quite so sure that I like the acoustics of the room now though. We have quite an echo going on.

Oh I bet the room looks a lot better, but yes, it makes for a very live room. Have you considered an area rug? You will still be able to see the lovely hardwood around the rug but it will help with acoustics.

Have you added any furniture or area rugs since you posted, or did you decide you liked the sound after all? I'd be interested to hear what you did.
