Have you ever called into a radio show to make a request or comment? If so, what was it about? Was it weird hearing your voice on the air?

I never called for a request or comment, although I have called to try to win free tickets. Unfortunately, I never won.

I imagine it would be very strange to hear myself on the radio.

I once one a radio contest and I had to call in to claim the prize. I sounded odd for sure. They kept telling me to turn down the radio. I wanted to hear myself though. When I listened to it again I couldn't believe how silly I sounded.

I have never called in for anything other than trying to win concert tickets or money. I like listening to some of the radio call in shows though.

I haven't called in, but I was with a friend when she did. I thought her voice sounded pretty much like her but she was appalled and said she thought her voice sounded much better in person.
