Hope everyone enjoyed themselves yesterday and took the time to thank a Vet for their sacrifices.

Here's a link to a few pics of our meager fireworks display. Please excuse the poor pics as my remote for my camera was acting up.

Yes, we had a nice 4th, but we missed out on fireworks, which was a bummer. My 2 year old is still afraid of them.

I liked your pictures; you got the timing down. If it were me, they all would've been right after the firework faded.

Yeah, wow, those are awesome pics!

I had a good fourth, but I really just took it as a day off. Not to get too political, but it's hard to celebrate "independence" these days. So I'm not sure I see the fourth the same as I used to. Now it has just become a party day.

We had a great 4th, but passed on the fireworks. It was - get this an all time record low temp for the day and it was raining. Maybe I got teleported from Arizona to Seattle.

Poor pics and meager display? They look like high quality photos to me! You really captured the brightness and sharpness of all of the fireworks.
