The college I went to had daily carillon performances, I miss the sound of those bells. I used to play the piano, I wonder how much harder playing a carillon would be. Is anyone here a fan of the carillon?

I like carillons too. I imagine if you are used to the piano, it would feel odd at first to press on the batons with a fist instead of playing with your fingers.

You use your fists on the batons? I guess I thought since they were laid out like a keyboard you would use your fingers. You learn something new every day!
