I plan to go to the beach tomorrow with some friends. So, today, I spent over an hour outside mowing the lawn, with no sunblock. I live in Florida.

Now my face is turning beet red and I'm trying to figure out how I can still go tomorrow without my face turning to a cinder and falling off.

Would you believe a ski mask

Been there done that, only it was my feet (in sandals) that got fried. Was extra special the next day at the beach.

Twice as much sunblock maybe? Look at it this way.....you put so much importance on working on your home that you forgot about playing.

That's a good thing.
