I can't find someone named Admin or similar, so I will post here and see if someone who helps with the site will read it.

I think I have email notification for responses to my posts turned on, but sometime ago I stopped receiving any email from audioroundtable.

Can someone help, my email address has been the same for a long time.

We'll look into why you are not receiving email notifications. You may get some test emails.

By the way, the ART email address is webmaster@audioroundtable.com if you ever need to contact us directly.

The AudioRoundTable.com mailserver appears to be working. It is able to send mail to other external addresses.

Please check your email account and see if you received our test messages. If not, then there may be a blocking mechanism on your end. These are automated messages after all, so if there is a spam guard that requires manual intervention of any sort, the messages won't get through.

If you did receive the test messages, let us know and we'll dig deeper into the forum itself.
