Subject: orgasonic model 40

Posted by Janet on Mon, 17 Dec 2007 04:06:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I bought an Orgasonic model 40 organ at Goodwill for $10. The cabinet is in excellent conditionand the organ plays ok except for the F# pedal which doesn't sound and the F & G keys in all octives after the organ has been on for a while has distortion. I live on SS and can't aford to spend a lot of money for repairs or parts, but would love to put the organ in good working condition so I can learn to play it. I would appreciate any information or suggestions or leads that anyone can give me. Thanks, Janet

Subject: Re: orgasonic model 40

Posted by metasonix on Sun, 23 Dec 2007 07:52:16 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sorry, that will be difficult. Your best bet might be to learn how to repair it yourself. Viscount Service is the "official" Baldwin organ repairer, although every town usually has someone who works on organs.http://www.mitatechs.com/suppliers.htm#Viscount_America_2You might ask around town for a technician. Be prepared to pay several hundred dollars. (sorry!)Oh, is this what it looks like inside?http://www.deviantsynth.com/2007/09/13/daddy-what-did-electronic-organ-mean-in-1950/

Subject: Re: orgasonic model 40

Posted by Janet on Sun, 23 Dec 2007 21:11:02 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thank you for your reply. The inside of the organ is a wall of vacuum tubes like we had in radios when I was a kid. At 69 I want to learn to play an organ, but wasn't looking forward to having to be a repairman also. Maybe my $10 bargain wasn't such a bargain after all. Even if the cabinet is in beautiful shape. Thanks again.