One of these days this'll be an Aikido pre-amp designed by John Broskie. Just got the chassis mostly drilled today, still have to locate the switches and volume control. A really neat feature is being able to switch between the 2 output caps, one Russkie oil, the other film. Steve Brown, who else?, provided me with a power supply schematic and pretty soon I'll close my eyes and start wiring.

Lookin' good Bill. I've got this pile of 6SN7's from my organ teardown. The Aikido pre might be a good use for them!

Looks like a neat project, Bill. Please keep us posted! Speaking of Steve, I saw him this afternoon and listened to his latest creation. Sounds really, really great. I think his amps keep getting better and better and I'm hoping he starts making kits. He has been kicking the idea around for a while and I think it would be great.
