
Subject: I love learning
Posted by Sunflower on Thu, 01 Nov 2012 04:03:18 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Some people are surprised that I know so much about so many things. I get most of my knowledge from watching documentaries and reading quality newspapers. Do you think it's important to learn more about the world we live in?

Subject: Re: I love learning
Posted by gofar99 on Fri, 02 Nov 2012 03:50:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi, Absolutely. I have been a sponge for knowledge all my life. Information that doesn't seem to be of any value at the time learned often pays off big time later. I started tinkering with electronics in about 1963 with tubes, then SS and finally ICs, but got off track a few years later and didn't get back until about 5 years ago. I took a detour into PC systems and hardware, but in retrospect that is not where I should have gone. Now I have the background from the early days and all that stuff in between that I find quite helpful in designing audio gear.

Subject: Re: I love learning
Posted by Nymeria on Fri, 09 Nov 2012 15:52:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Of course it is important and you really can't avoid learning since it's a part of life. It kills me how many people think learning stops when you leave educational institutions.

Subject: Re: I love learning
Posted by Azuri on Sun, 25 Nov 2012 03:48:56 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

It is very important in my opinion. Knowledge is the key to success and even if you only learn a little bit on any given day, you're still learning something.

Subject: Re: I love learning
Posted by Nouri on Mon, 26 Nov 2012 03:00:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I think it's important because you never know when a bit of knowledge about one thing can apply to something else. Knowing a little about a lot can come in handy in so many ways.

Subject: Re: I love learning

Posted by love2play on Mon, 26 Nov 2012 15:18:10 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nouri wrote on Sun, 25 November 2012 22:00I think it's important because you never know when a bit of knowledge about one thing can apply to something else. Knowing a little about a lot can come in handy in so many ways.

I absolutely agree with that. I am a very big reader, and I love watching documentaies too. I have always said that if I had the money I would just be a professional college student. There are lots of courses you can take online now for free though.

Subject: Re: I love learning

Posted by iLoveiPod on Tue, 27 Nov 2012 00:16:18 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I definitely think it's important to at least a little bit about a wide variety of subjects. Like someone else pointed out, you never know when that knowledge will come in handy, even in another area.
