I had to take my son to the pediatrician today because he has had a high fever for the past four days and he woke up with a rash all over him. People around here have been so sick I didn't even want to sit down in there, and I didn't let him touch anything. Turns out he just has roseola, but I hope we didn't pick up anything worse in there!

I hope that your little one is feeling better today, and that you didn't pickup any more germs at the doctor's office. I hate having to take the kids in there this time of year!

The doctor's waiting room is a hotbed for germs isn't it? Hope the little tyke's feeling better. I try to keep my daughter with Vitamin C during this time of year to help ward off the viruses.

He is doing a little better, but you can tell he still doesn't feel like himself. The rash is starting to fade a bit, and at least it wasn't the itchy kind!
