Subject: Equal Treatment
Posted by Vaiger on Tue, 18 Dec 2012 03:28:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

How do you feel about equal treatment for women? A better way to put it I suppose is do you think there is a line men shouldn't cross when it comes to expecting the same things from women as people do from men?

Subject: Re: Equal Treatment
Posted by iLoveiPod on Tue, 18 Dec 2012 20:24:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Well, I do think women should be paid equally for equal work, but I also think there are jobs that men are just naturally better at. Men are naturally stronger than women, for example, so I think they're better suited for jobs that require brute strength. I also think men are better suited for front line positions in the military, because it's not uncommon for a woman to be captured and raped as a form of torture. Otherwise, I do think that if a man and a woman are doing the same job, neither should be given preference based on their gender.

Subject: Re: Equal Treatment
Posted by Nouri on Wed, 19 Dec 2012 17:26:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If there is something that women can do just as good as men, then yes, they should be treated equally. Of course there are certain things that men can do better then women and vice versa, so equal treatment does have a "line" so to speak.