We are trying to figure out some speakers to put into our bedroom for our new television. I like the small Samsung surround sound speakers we have in the living room, but I am concerned they will be too powerful for a smaller room. Does anyone have any recommendations? Thanks for your help.

How powerful are the Samsung speakers? How small is your room? With any surround speakers, you could have the same concerns about power; just keep the overall volume down, I guess.

If you have quality sound then you can compromise on the volume a little, right? I use my old computer speakers for audio in my bedroom. They are small but powerful enough and my TV is about 12 feet from the bed.
