Has anyone here seen Metallica's Black Album documentary on Netflix? I think it's a recent addition to the streaming queue, but it's really good. It's all about how they made the Black Album and it features interviews with Lars Ulrich, James Hetfield, Kirk Hammett, and Jason Newsted.

I saw this not too long ago. I always like to watch documentaries like this one that show how a band created a particular album or put together a particular show. Does Lars come across as somewhat... arrogant... to you?
