I am not the type of person who automatically believes everything I read in newspapers, but the media hype over North Korea right now is making me a little nervous. Does anyone think it is really more than hype and bluff?

Who needs Samsung and Hyundai,
When Communism brings fun day?

Comrade Mao taught us how,
Then again, look at them now.

We must be relevant.

I've been wondering about this as well. North Korea has been an issue off and on for a while now, issuing threats and then lapsing back into moody silences.

It's all hype Chokabloc. Notice how he was all in the news and then Boston happened? No strikes against us from him? He's a blowhard who's trying to prove to the world that he's a man and a viable leader. Which he's not on either account.

Somebody said that he only rattles his sabres after the U.S. puts sanctions on him. Sometimes I think the only way he knows how to feed his people is to scare food out of other countries.
