I feel a little sad that Myspace was pretty much forgotten once Facebook came around. I sort of like the concept that it focuses on music now, but I don't know if it helps much. Does anyone here still have a Myspace account that they check daily?

I quit checking mine years ago, when I finally broke down and created a Facebook page. I clung to my MySpace page for a long time after other friends and family had abandoned it, but finally everyone I knew has transitioned to Facebook so I had to as well in order to stay in touch with everyone.
