I can't believe Cory Monteith of Glee fame is dead. I'm not totally surprised since I knew he had substance abuse issues, but still, he was so young.

I wasn't really surprised but it is still a bit of a shock to the system when something like that happens. I think it'd be worse if everyone just shrugged it off like his death was nothing, simply because he suffered from addiction.

He was in his 30's, but what I find the saddest is he was trying to kick his habit. He just didn't do it in time to save himself.
