The movie Elysium looks pretty interesting.  It's essentially about class warfare, except that the lower classes are on Earth and the elite live on a man-made space station.

Your right, it does look interesting. The premise reminds me a lot of Just In Time. That was also about class warfare. Basically, the rich lived forever by stealing time (through skyrocketing "prices") from the poor.

Wow, Just in Time sounds pretty cool too.  When did it come out?  Can you imagine actually living in a society with such unfair class divisions?
