I read a neat little article. The author was hiking and saw a chalked note to "Listen to the sounds!". It was a nice reminder to slow down sometimes and appreciate the beauty, including aural beauty, that surrounds us.

There is not greater soundtrack than the music made by nature. That is why hiking, or just walking along a country road, is something I always enjoy.

Hi, Surprisingly as much as like music I find that I like quiet nearly as much. Both have soothing qualities.
