
Subject: DIY Auto Speakers
Posted by Fannie on Mon, 30 Sep 2013 19:16:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I am wanting to build my own speakers for my car. I have a 1980 Camero Z28. I restored the inside but the speakers were completely destroyed.

Subject: Re: DIY Auto Speakers
Posted by Wayne Parham on Mon, 30 Sep 2013 21:15:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Are you trying to keep the back deck original? Or are you willing to kind of do your own thing?

I ask because if you want to keep it original, you're probably limited to stock replacements. Some sound pretty decent, although not great. But if you go beyond that, you're going to change the appearance of the interior. All depends on what you want.

Subject: Re: DIY Auto Speakers
Posted by Csharp on Tue, 24 May 2016 09:23:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

There are many kits available, so if you have the size of the speakers in mind that you would like you should be able to get something going. You should always start there.....with the size.....and build around that.
