I understand that anyone can attend LSAF. Can anyone display their projects or do you have to have a special invitation to participate? I am looking to attend in May 2014. It would be my first LSAF and I don't know that I would bring anything but wondered about the procedure if I chose to.

Hi, Anyone can display their projects. I have seen simple ones to full blown set ups. The only cost is the price of the room. You do need to register though. Also when you reserve a room or rooms you have to indicate that it is for the LSAF. Instructions for all this generally are available in the Spring. I am always glad to see both previous exhibitors and new folks. A good time is had by all.

Is there an age limit? I am 18. I don't know that I could attend this year because I will be getting ready for graduation in June.
