Do you check out Rotten Tomatoes before going to see a movie? I do. I find better guidance there than I get from regular film critics.

We don't usually go see movies at the theater, but I do use it when I am looking for movie on Netflix or to pick up from Redbox.

We don't see movies in the theater that much anymore. I've never thought of using Rotten Tomatoes to see what the reviews are. Rarely do I go by the critics' reviews, since most of the time they seem a little biased. I like reading what people have to say about a movie before I go.
