My husband, who is a long time Kiss fan, took our teenage daughter to the Kiss concert. He thought he might find it too loud and not as fun as when he was younger. He actually had a great time and I think that our daughter's enjoyment of the concert probably played a big part in it. Music and bands are something they both share a love for.

That must have been a neat bonding experience for the two of them and I bet the concert was a lot of fun.

I'm not sure why he thought he wouldn't enjoy it as much, however. I may be getting older but I love concerts as much as I always did.

It was a great bonding experience for both of them. I heard all about the concert for a week. My husband had video taped a song and you could hear them both singing to it. They wore identical Kiss t-shirts and my husband was a good sport about it since it was a little flashy.
