I recently reconnected with a friend of mine who still works as an audio engineer. He does live sound reinforcement and apparently has branched out from local work. I see updates from him from different areas of the country all the time.

It's always nice to talk to old friends again. Did you reconnect online? Does he like travelling so frequently?

I have a friend who works on yachts and travels the world. I'm very jealous.

Yes, we found each other on Facebook. I don't really know if he enjoys the travelling or not. He just got married so I imagine at this exact moment he'd probably stick closer to home if he could.
