Are you going to watch The Day of the Doctor, the 50th anniversary special of Dr. Who? It airs November 23, but if you wait, you can see it in the theaters November 25 in 3D. We're considering going to the theater.

We haven't yet decided whether we will spend the money to see it in the theater. Either way we won't see it the day it airs; we have to wait for it to become available online if we don't hit the theater.

Well, did anyone else see it? I am lucky enough to have a friend who has really fancy cable and held a party for the viewing. I really liked the movie, and I'm only a dilettante Whovian. In fact, it has inspired me to go back and watch more episodes.
