For Christmas, I received a small portable speaker that connects via Bluetooth. This will come in very handy with my computer and my phone. I don't expect quality, but the convenience will be nice.

That sounds like a nice gift. What I could have used was a new system for my car, but I needed new headlights more.

Oh well, it's on my list for next year.

Yes, I like my new little speaker. As for you, while a new car audio system would have been fun, I bet it's a relief to have those headlights replaced.
