When I have some extra time on my hands I like to try and find interesting websites. Here's one I'd like opinions on.

http://www.truthcontest.com/the-present/

It gets a bit deep with things but it is very organized.

Hi, Not something for me. I do however also search for interesting sites. There are ones that can appeal to anyone. As you might expect I go for the ones that relate to technology.

That is a little too deep for me as well. It is put together very well though. It's certainly not something you see everyday, but where is the contest?

From what I can see, that is a book laid out in a website format. Different chapters and everything. They call it The Ultimate Truth but it just looks like someone's opinion of what truth is.

What they said about The Beatles was interesting though.
