Subject: Brad Pitts Charity
Posted by The Noise on Thu, 02 Jan 2014 23:23:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm hearing on the news that a charity that Brad Pitt runs is under fire. It seems that they rebuilt houses for the victims of hurricane Katrina, and now those houses are basically rotting from the inside out.

How much trouble do you think Mr. Pitt will be in?

Subject: Re: Brad Pitts Charity
Posted by Concorde on Thu, 02 Jan 2014 23:46:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Not much I would guess. I don't know what kind of man he personally, but business wise he will probably deflect the fault on the contractors. The people who actually built the houses.

Subject: Re: Brad Pitts Charity
Posted by Azuri on Sun, 05 Jan 2014 17:51:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I agree. Brad Pitt may own the charity, but like so many other owners he is too busy to oversee every facet of that charity all the time. The best he can do from now on is do a more thorough check of the people and companies that work for him.

Subject: Re: Brad Pitts Charity
Posted by audioaudio90 on Mon, 06 Jan 2014 15:12:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yes, I expect this would be a minor bump in the road for him. He'll get new contractors (hopefully better ones) to do the repairs and any future construction and people will forget about it soon enough.

Subject: Re: Brad Pitts Charity
Posted by love2play on Sun, 19 Jan 2014 21:19:20 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I had not heard about this before so I used our dear old friend Google. The news stories make it sound like it is the charity at fault, when in reality it is the lumber company. The Make it Right foundation is already fixing the problem for the homeowners, so if anything this is good publicity for the foundation.

Subject: Re: Brad Pitts Charity
Posted by LuvMartin on Wed, 22 Jan 2014 23:22:57 GMT

I heard about this on the news, and I think if anything the publicity will be good for the charity. None of this was their fault and they are doing what they can to fix it.