Some of you may have had a giggle or two over my "adventures" with the cable company. I'm not sure why I bother to have cable. There are wonderful alternatives to TV.

My latest entertainment has been watching TED talks, both from Netflix and from the TED website. They cover the range. Some are funny; some make you cry; many are inspiring; some of the science ones will educate and impress you. I highly recommend them. They're like 18 minutes each. Wonderful way to spend an evening.
