What are your plans for the weekend? After being snowed in for most of the week, now we are supposed to have a very rainy weekend. I got behind on some work this week so I am going to be using the weekend to play catch up.

Sleeping seems like a good bet. But (sorry folks) when you are retired and now working for a company you half own....you can do things as you get inspired. I figure pretty much every day is a Saturday except Sunday.
