My kids have developed a love of the music from some of the Disney animated movies. I can honestly say that I wish I hadn't introduced them to them, because some of it is awful. Try as I might to steer them back to 'real' music, instead they choose to torture me all day long with them.

Get ready for a rant.

I've been researching MK Ultra mind control stuff after Sandy Hook happened. Disney keeps coming up again and again. It's like Disney is synonymous with mind control. Look at all of the Disney child stars that have crashed and burned, or completely lost their minds. (Britney, Demi Lavato, Miley, Lindsay Lohan, Selena Gomez). Their videos are FULL of illuminati and mind control symbolism. Personally, I forbid my daughters to listen to that garbage for their own protection. I especially frown on them watching Disney channel. What utter garbage! Worse than that, it is programming.

As a child, I loved my Disney album full of classic songs from the 40's and 50's movies, but today's Disney is utterly Satanic and heavily involved in the whole freemasonry, illuminati, mind control thing.

Fifteen years ago, I was baffled at the success in marketing that Disney has. They are everywhere! Now, it seems like everyone knows the song "Let it Go" by heart. How does that happen? I believe there is a dark spiritual element to everything Disney does and it attracts people. You're right, the songs suck....so what is it? Even pop music comes and goes faster than Disney sound tracks.

The songs do get old but most of them are pretty decent. The problem is hearing them too often, either through kids or just through general pop culture. I'm not even going to touch the Illuminati rant.

I agree that most of the music is completely terrible and the shows they have on now are even worse. Why is it that they always make the parents so dumb on these shows? It's like the kids are in control and the parents aren't capable of taking care of themselves. What is this really saying to our kids?

Hi, I'll accept the bit about the stuff not being of high quality but then this is what many folks want to hear now. Many of us older dudes got crapped on for listening to stuff from Frank Zappa, Beatles, and so on. So I'll pass on the quality of the music. I don't buy the insidious side though. YMMV.

Shudders*

My baby girl is only one, but I have already decided that I am not going to let her watch or listen to most of the modern cartoons. My plan is to get did collections of decent cartoon programs from the past couple of decades, and let her watch those.

The worst show I have seen so far for children's cartoons is TEEN TITANS, GO. They twist your heade into a pretzel. One episode showed the other characters trying to convince their friend that he needed to clean his room after finding a garbage collection in it. At the end of the program, they all loved garbage and thought it was valuable.

My daughter will not be allowed to watch that program.

The Teen Titans, Go is pretty bad. I have noticed their messages are a bit off track as well. I'm not terribly fond of any of the recent cartoons I have seen.
