Our car stereo is on the fritz and I think it's probably going to quit working any day now. Can you recommend a good replacement for around $200?

I would go with something made by either Pioneer or Kenwood. I don't know of any models specifically but if you visit Pioneer's and Kenwood's websites, you can probably find something.

I have the The Pioneer DEH-X9500BHS. I definitely recommend it depending on what you're looking for. I love it. Check it out, definitely has a lot of good reviews.

Thanks for the input, both of you. Harlow, I will definitely check that Pioneer model you mentioned! You guys actually make the third and fourth people I've spoken with who recommend Pioneer.
