

---

Subject: Audiobooks

Posted by Iceage on Thu, 06 Feb 2014 11:10:38 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Do any of you use an audiobook service regularly? I have a subscription to Audible and I find myself listening more and more, especially when insomnia hits me and I need to find a way to switch off.

---

---

Subject: Re: Audiobooks

Posted by timron on Thu, 06 Feb 2014 17:09:37 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I've been considering audiobooks lately as I have problems with insomnia, too, but for now I've just been reading them on my Kindle. The only thing about audiobooks that makes me pause is the fact that I'm funny about the way the narrator sounds; if I don't like the sound of his/her voice, I won't listen to the book.

---

---

Subject: Re: Audiobooks

Posted by Samuel on Tue, 11 Feb 2014 09:37:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Most allow you to preview them thankfully, so that you can decide whether the narrator is annoying. And Audible allows you to return a certain number of books that you don't get on with.

I have used a couple of subscription services, and Audible is the best I've found.

---

---

Subject: Re: Audiobooks

Posted by sceneherd on Thu, 09 Jun 2016 18:54:37 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I am actually a voice over artist for audible audiobooks. I love the ACX.com platform. It makes the audition process for work simple and fast. I record all of my audiobooks on Audacity, then send them to my editor. He masters them and removes all of the errors so I can free up time to record more audiobooks. I might look into some paid software options in the future, but for now, Audacity meets all of my needs.

---