If you have a home theater is all your equipment from the same brand or is it a mix of different brands? Which do you prefer? Does it even matter?

My stuff is a mixture of different brands from where I've bought different pieces at different times and as part of different sales. I don't care that they aren't all the same brand because I don't feel like any one brand is superior to all the rest (even Bose).

All different brands. If there is a sale on something I need it doesn't matter that the brand isn't the same. Sometimes I just like the look of something and buy it.
