Why are the studios insisting on remaking movies from the 80's-90's that weren't that good the first time around? I mean Total Recall got a remake last year and now they want to bring back Robocop. Is anyone even interested in seeing these?

I thought the original Robocop was horrible. I wouldn't watch the remake of it. I don't know why producers think that we want to see remakes of these movies.

Is anyone going to watch Rosemary's Baby? I keep seeing advertisements on TV for it. It isn't going to be a remake but more of a take the movie and make it be in this century.
