I'm not fond of vampire movies but I find the new Dracula Untold movie coming out in October or November to be real interesting. It has a lot of action and an interesting story line where Dracula becomes a vampire with all the powers in order to protect his family and people. You can see a trailer for it on imdb.com.

Wow, that looks like it's going to be a pretty cool with all the CGI put into it. I like action packed movies, and fast-paced ones as well, where they keep your attention throughout the whole movie.
