Subject: Always Replacing Earbuds
Posted by audioaudio90 on Sun, 31 Aug 2014 12:45:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I guess I'm hard on my earbuds. Ever since I started working out more regularly, I go through them more often. Usually the wire gets exposed where it attaches to the stereo plug and then I start losing signal in one or both sides. Maybe I need to find more durable ones instead of making do with the junk from Walmart.

Subject: Re: Always Replacing Earbuds
Posted by iLoveiPod on Thu, 04 Sep 2014 00:53:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I don't know if I'd start buying more expensive ear buds just yet. I have bought the cheap ones as well as the more expensive ones and it seems like the "life time" is about the same either way.

Subject: Re: Always Replacing Earbuds
Posted by audioaudio90 on Sun, 07 Sep 2014 13:23:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Oh well that's not great news. Don't they make any specifically for athletes that might last longer? It would probably help if I were not so clumsy. I frequently accidentally catch the cord on the machines.

Subject: Re: Always Replacing Earbuds
Posted by George on Sat, 18 Apr 2026 05:25:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wireless earbuds are the best alternative that you've got to consider. Some brands like Apple Brands are good and have features like the noise cancellation system that makes you work out seamlessly and enjoyable. You can consider getting one from them, and you will be glad you did.