Subject: My Ears!
Posted by audioaudio90 on Thu, 09 Oct 2014 12:15:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

During one of my dance classes at the gym, I stood in the front row instead of the second or third. That was a mistake. The instructor totally blasted the music and my ears! I had a temporary threshold shift all last night, which was really annoying. At least I'm back to normal this morning; at least I think I am.

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by AFreed52 on Thu, 09 Oct 2014 23:13:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Assuming your ears were ringing afterward, if that stopped by the next day, you're fine. I started a job once where my single job the first day was to push seal caps through a VERY noisy machine.

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by audioaudio90 on Fri, 10 Oct 2014 12:28:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Well luckily my ears weren't really ringing, but everything sounded like they had cotton stuffed in them. It was more annoying than worrisome. That job does not sound like it was fun, AFreed.

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by timron on Fri, 10 Oct 2014 20:12:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've been to concerts before where I was worried I'd done permanent damage to my hearing because my ears rang for hours afterward. I've never been to a dance class in a gym before but if it was anything like concert volume, I think I'd be in the back of the room next time!

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by LoveJB on Mon, 02 Feb 2015 20:45:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I know exactly what you are talking about. I've been to a couple of really loud concerts. I felt like I was deaf when I left. I think the loudest one was when I took my daughter to see Justin Bieber.

I have also had a hard time in my Zumba class. I know where to stand now - never right in front of the speakers!

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by Equinom on Thu, 05 Feb 2015 03:47:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I think we have all had that feeling at one point in our lives. I have also noticed that this happens after I attend sporting events. Especially if they are REALLY loud & the bass is pumping & everyone's screaming. It's really annoying.

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by Round2 on Sun, 15 Feb 2015 11:18:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I remember the last concert I went to thinking I should bring earplugs just to dampen the sound. I forgot them at home. We live in the country and it's really quiet at night. When I got home all I could hear was the ringing in my ears. Took a long time to get to sleep!

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by LoveJB on Mon, 16 Feb 2015 00:16:19 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I love sporting events! We go to a lot of Steelers games. The noise doesn't bother me at all. I am cheering just as loud as everyone else! Concerts do bother my ears though.

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by Rockstar on Mon, 16 Feb 2015 00:17:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I agree lovejb... football games don't bother me at all. I have never been to an indoor football game though. The noise kind of just goes into the open air!

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by Round2 on Mon, 16 Feb 2015 11:35:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The only time sporting events bother my ears is if I'm sitting next to the screamer! That one person with the high pitch scream that seems to be yelling right in your ear. Otherwise sporting events don't bother me.

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by timron on Thu, 17 Dec 2015 14:30:18 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've never come home from a sporting event with my ears ringing (or feeling as if they're 'stuffed with cotton'), only from concerts. I wonder if that's because I've only attended sporting events in open-air stadiums?

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 18 Dec 2015 16:13:11 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I suspect it has more to do with SPL.

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by timron on Fri, 18 Dec 2015 19:26:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wayne Parham wrote on Fri, 18 December 2015 10:13
I suspect it has more to do with SPL.

What is SPL? I'm not familiar with the term, at least not by acronym. Is that something to do with how sound reverberates, maybe? Do tell.

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 18 Dec 2015 21:30:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sound Pressure Level. I'm just saying I concerts are usually louder than most sporting events. Drag racing is an exception, of course.

Subject: Re: My Ears!
Posted by Luther163 on Mon, 21 Dec 2015 07:46:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I know exactly what you are talking about.