Have you guys seen the news today? Apparently a guy has admitted to killing at least seven women in Gary and Hammond, Indiana. The article I read said that of the seven bodies they've found so far, only two or three of the women had even been reported as missing. That's really sad. And really sick, too. What is wrong with people these days?!

This is so sickening. I read about it yesterday but I haven't read any updates today. I wonder how many more women he really killed or if seven is all of them.
