This has to be one of the worst stories I've heard in a long time. Apparently a mentally ill woman gave birth to at least three children that she then hid. No one knows for sure yet if the babies were born alive or not, but their bodies were found in two different closets in her home.

It may sound cruel to say this, but I hope they do find her insane or otherwise mentally incompetent. If she's found fit for trial, I would seek the death penalty in a situation like this. This is so outrageous it's almost unbelievable.

I read a similar story where multiple dead babies were found in a dumpster somewhere. I just don't understand what happens to these women that they decide this is the right choice to make. How can you do that to a child?

My only guesses are that (A.) it is post-partum depression, or (B.) it is a teenager who somehow managed to hide it and is now scared to come home with the child.
