Hello!

I'm in the verge of diving in to these speakers, I've read quite a bit about them and I've also been looking for a horn loaded DIY build.

Thank you

Ragnar

I'd like to build a pair of these speakers, the 2226 drivers are easy to find for short money on ebay,

I was pondering a 4430 design but the drivers are much more expensive and harder to come by. I guess the only real difference is that the 4pi's really need a subwoofer? They roll off rather steeply at 100hz while the 4430's are pretty flat until about 50hz, at any rate, may I have a set of plans please?

Thanks!

Zac

And you've got mail too!

best experience. And subs are recommended not just for added extension but also for modal smoothing. So really, the gradual rolloff below 100Hz is not so much an issue, because the benefits gained from adding flanking subs are significant beyond extension.

One more simple question, I'm planning on using the B&C DE250 compression drivers, which horn is appropriate for the 4 Pi?
