I still have my old seven-disc changer from high school. I don't use it as much as I used to since the technology has changed so much and it is so much easier to take music with you. I was wondering if anyone still has a disc changer and if so, do you still use it on a daily basis?

I still have a disc changer that I used to use in my shop all the time. I would use it to listen to music while I was working on my latest audio rebuild. Now I usually use my iPad or phone. The changer really doesn't get much use.

A seven disc changer.....I don't know why, but the first thing that came to my mind was record players that you could put 5 or 6 records on. They would drop one at a time when the previous one was finished.

We used to joke around and call it "the disc changer".

This was back in the '80's.
