I heard on the radio the other day that Coldplay is going to be singing in the half-time show during the Super Bowl. I don't know if they are a good fit since they aren't really as upbeat as other artist that they have chosen previously. Does anyone else think that Coldplay isn't the best choice for this event?

I'm going to have to You Tube them before I can say. I've heard of them, but I've never heard them. My favorite choice would be The Rolling Stones, but I don't think those boys would be willing to pay to play.

Did you see it? I actually love Coldplay, and thought they did a great job. Their music choices were peppy, and they looked like they were having a blast. Bruno Mars, was fantastic, but I don't think he could be bad if he tried. Honestly, I could have done without Beyonce. I didn't think she was that fantastic. You couldn't even hear her.
